

Customer Review on Pumpkin 6.2 Inch Wince 6.0 Car DVD GPS Navigation 2 Din-W0244

Great head unit, this is the second Pumpkin Double Din I have bought recently and I have not been disappointed. This one I installed in my mothers's car today, (Toyota Corolla). Fitted perfectly, just waiting on fascia to be delivered on Friday. Everything work excellently.

The only niggle and it is only a niggle is the reversing camera is a bit chunky, otherwise OK.

After having used this Pumpkin head unit for almost half a year here are my thoughts:

-Easy to install, very straightforward. The supplied ISO harness clipped straight into the wiring inside the dash on my Panda and literally within five minutes I was listening to music and the radio – make sure you get yourself a radio aerial adapter though if you need one, they're under a pound. The unit doesn't come with a cage so you'll either have to buy one or use your existing one. I used the existing one that was already in my car.

-Great sound. I get much better sound off this than the original.

-Visible in daylight! (convertibles may have troubles tho)

-Touchscreen very responsive.

-GPS is very good at locating you I always have full signal. It takes me on funny routes in Edinburgh... But you can change the software.

-The rear camera is very clear and everything is visible even in low light.

-Bluetooth works like a charm and I can play stuff from my phone and listen to Spotify without any issues. Also the phone functions work well and it is good to be able to dial a number directly from the unit.

, but microphone is very bad.

Only downside is GPS not showing speed limits onscreen which I sometimes have trouble seeing on the road. Also needs exact address. E.g.: cannot write Arthur's seat.

Great little kit, I recommend it highly. Has its flaws but for the money I can't blame it.
